To Curb Drug Abuses

The new powers granted to the Federal Bureau of Drug Abuse Control, a unit of the Food and Drug Administration, promise a tighter curb on illegal sales of pep pills, sleeping pills and hallucinogens. The Bureau no longer will have to prove that several key drugs in these categories, including the controversial hallucinogen known as LSD, have been transported across a state line.

This is a valuable tool for tightening control over potentially dangerous drugs which cannot legally be sold without a prescription except to licensed suppliers and pharmacies. It is a tool that will be of particular use in curbing the illicit use of LSD.

This fits in with FDA Administrator James L. Goddard's declaration that the agency will intensify its efforts to get the LSD problem under control. That effort is commendable, particularly in view of reports that LSD is being widely used on college

The LSD problem should not be allowed to distract attention, however, from the even greater — because far more widespread - danger posed by illegal sales of the prescriptive stimulants and depressants. As the Drug Abuse Control Bureau's chief investigator, Edward Wilkins, has noted, the LSD problem has been exaggerated because of its sensational nature and because of reports that young people are experimenting with this hallucinogenic drug. The Bureau's increased power should be used vigorously to crack down on abuse of all the drugs that may seriously endanger health.

Basic Scout Tenets

Some 3,000 delegates assembled in Dallas the other day elected officers of the Boy Scouts of America. As a part of this process they resoundingly approved a third term as president for Thomas J. Watson Jr., under whose vigorous leadership the organization has continued to flourish.

We take this as an occasion to hail the Boy Scouts for the fruitful part they have played, during more than half a century, in the development of American society. The organization ... has not been inflexible: it has changed in response to a swiftly changing world. But through it all the Scouts have clung to the basic tenets embodied in the Scout Law.

Many a man of middle age or better can still run through that catalogue of manly virtues: "A Scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful. thrifty, brave, clean and reverent." They are qualities whose importance sticks in the mind. We salute the Scouts for helping to foster them.

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie-Television Writer ROME (AP) — In America, they still ask, "Who is Raquel Welch?" In Europe, they know. Raquel's splendid 37-221/2-351/2 can be seen on every newsstand; recently she appeared on five French magazine covers vs. Ursula Andress's two. She is besieged by film offers - to costar with Marcello Mastroianni in a comedy, to play the French empress in the superepic "Waterloo," to star in "Fraulein Doktor" for Dino de Laurentiis, all of which she will probably do.

She is the darling of Europe's photographers, who consistently ask her: "Are you really an American?"

Indeed she is. Born in Chicago and reared in La Jolla, Calif., she was a Hollywood deb star just a couple of years ago. But her exotic looks and Spanish name — she is of Spanish-French - German - English -Scottish descent — make Europeans believe she is one of

Hand Looked

Like Cinch By JACOBY & SON Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This business of being careless about the play of the second trick is not confined to average players. Lots of experts are inclined to play too fast when the hand appears to be a cinch.

At both tables in an impor tant match in England the bidding and play of the first two tricks went quickly and identically. Each declarer won the diamond opening with dummy's ace and led a trump to his ace. West was unkind enough to show out and play slowed down to a turtle's pace.

Eventually, each expert led a heart to duminy's queen. Then each led a heart back toward his own hand and played low after East produced the nine. The East players proceeded to do a little celebrating of their own and came up with the killing lead of the queen of trumps. The unfortunate Souths won with their kings and had the choice of death by hanging or shooting. They could ruff one losing heart in dummy but that play would establish East's nine of trumps and they would wind up losing one trump, one club a two hearts or they could pull East's last trump and lose three hearts and a club. You can't make four spades if you lose four tricks and both experts went

If either South had stopped for some real study before leading had no trouble making his game. He would simply have led the queen of hearts from dummy to make it impossible for two trumps to be led before South was ready to ruff some hearts. Of course, this might have lost against some very bad break in hearts but there was less chance for it to happen than for the actual distribution.
